Whip Up a Batch of Amish Whoopie Pies

If you ever travel through Lancaster County in Pennsylvania, you'll likely find roadside stands featuring a regional specialty called "Amish Whoopie Pie." According to legend, when children would find these sweet and yummy treats in their lunch bags, they would shout: "Whoopie!"

These dessert treats are more like a cake than a pie or a cookie, and they're so big that you'll want to share one with a friend. The original recipes were made with chocolate, but this adaptation using pumpkin has become a family favorite.

This recipe is fun to make when everyone in the family gets involved. The steps require a lot of mixing, so give each family member a separate "mixing and stirring" task using the specific bowls listed in the following steps.

When cooking with kids, choose tasks according to their ability and the child's interest in learning new skills. For example, if one of your kids is ready to crack eggs, give them "Bowl No. 2!"

First, preheat the oven to 350 F.

Bowl No. 1: In one large mixing bowl, combine 1 cup of vegetable oil with 2 cups of brown sugar. Mix well.

Bowl No. 2: In a second bowl, whisk two eggs, then add them to the first bowl. Continue stirring as you add 1 1/2 cups canned pumpkin and 1 teaspoon vanilla extract.

Bowl No. 3: In the third bowl, combine the following dry ingredients:

- 3 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon allspice
- 1 teaspoon salt

Add dry ingredients to Bowl No. 1 and stir. The consistency will be similar to batter for pumpkin bread. Scoop 1/4-cup quantities of the mixture onto a greased cookie sheet.

Bake 10-12 minutes, or until lightly browned. Cool slightly, remove from pan, and cool on wire rack.

Assemble by spreading your favorite vanilla frosting on one baked "cookie," then top with another to resemble a giant sandwich cookie. Dust with powdered sugar and serve. Makes 10.

Cook's Tip: For a creative twist, add 1/4 cup canned chestnut puree to every cup of vanilla frosting. ©2026 Donna Erickson. Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER:
My 6-month-old toy poodle, "Jenks," is incredibly cute, but he has a sharp, loud bark for such a little guy – and he barks almost nonstop when we're home. I know anxiety is an issue with many small breeds, and I'm wondering how

I can best address this. – John, via email
DEAR JOHN: It's worth looking into. Contact Jenks' veterinarian to discuss the issue, as I'm sure you'll get a number of different suggestions ranging from behavior training to anti-anxiety medication.

Jenks is still pretty young. If you have to be out for eight hours or more, you may want to have someone – a friend or a pet sitter – come in to check on him, take him out to pee and play a little bit.

You also should establish a routine that he can count on, one that includes plenty of time spent with him either playing or training. Both of these are times when he's getting your full attention and positive reinforcement, as well as a way to work off some of that puppy energy that's also behind the barking.

As your puppy matures into an adult, he may mellow out somewhat. But in the meantime, it's up to you to provide structure and training to reinforce the behavior you want in Jenks. If these efforts don't seem to improve the constant barking, talk with your vet about addressing his anxiety with medication. ©2026 King Features Synd., Inc.

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne
• Broccoli contains more protein per calorie than steak.
• A wildlife photographer documented an unlikely duo in northern Finland: a young female gray wolf and a male brown bear that met every night for 10 days. They weren't observed fighting, but roaming, playing and even eating from the same plate.
• If you are born blind due to lesions in the brain (congenital cortical blindness), rather than lesions in the eye (congenital peripheral blindness), you apparently can't become schizophrenic.

Fun Fact

Ladybugs are known for their reddish coloring with black spots, but they can also be yellow, orange, brown or pink with black spots. These vivid markings are a kind of warning, since ladybugs can emit very foul liquid from their leg joints! It's a defense against their predators such as birds, small mammals, assassin bugs, stink bugs and spiders.

Outdoor Opportunities

By COL (Ret.) Grey D. Berrier II

With the Snow Gone and the Land Bare, It's a Good Time to Explore and Observe

The other day, I heard someone refer to our current time frame as “the ugly part of the year.” When I asked them what they meant by that, they responded, “You know what I’m talking about. The snow has melted away and Spring green-up is still a few weeks away. It’s the time of year when everything is just so bland: no green plants, the trees are barren of leaves, and your eyes seem to gravitate to any trash scattered across the landscape.” Now, I couldn’t argue with their visual assessment of the surrounding countryside, but I did counter with the fact that the “openness” that comes with no snow and no leaves brings a great opportunity to explore and observe things you might just miss other times of the year when the world abounds in color. It is a good time to confirm your past suspicions and make new discoveries.

In fact, I recently took advantage of this unique period when most folks seem to want to just stay home and took my dog for a six-mile hike on Friday, February 27, up on the trails of the Kennerdell Tract of Clear Creek State Forest, paralleling the Allegheny River. There were still a few large remnants of ice along the river’s edge and an occasional melting ice chunk floating downstream with the current. While I did see some small flocks of waterfowl on the river, I was primarily interested in “forest forensics,” closely studying the land under my feet and completely surrounding me for shed antlers, deer beds, buck rubs, scrapes, game trails, scat, nests, and other evidence of animal activity left behind. Saint and I had this vast stretch of public land all to ourselves that afternoon. We parked by the gate at the western end of the Kennerdell Bridge and proceeded to walk upstream on the River Trail for over two miles, passing over Dennison Run and hiking past the riverside paddle-in campground. Our looping jaunt took us onto the ascending Ridge Trail and then back down the Pipeline Trail, before returning to my waiting vehicle.

If you’ve never intentionally gone shed hunting, it can become addictive after you find your very first deer antler. It’s a great outdoor activity to share with your children and grandchildren as you all look carefully for discarded white-tailed deer antlers on the forest floor, since it brings the excitement of a scavenger hunt. Some folks even diligently train their dogs with old deer antlers and special scent to assist in the search. When you do find a shed antler, look closely in the surrounding proximity, because bucks may shed both antlers simultaneously or at different times in the confines of a favorite bedding area or travel corridor. Finding a specific shed antler(s) is a great way to confirm a buck you were pursuing earlier made it through hunting season and possibly may grow a bigger set of antlers this coming year, while it can also reveal a buck is in the area, which you’ve never seen or captured on a trail camera photo.

You will notice shed antlers often have gnawed off points or other evidence of being chewed upon. Other animals recognize deer antlers are nutrient dense supplements full of calcium, phosphorus, and other essential minerals. This behavior, known as osteophagy, is primarily attributed to rodents, such as squirrels, chipmunks, mice, wood rats, and porcupines; but larger animals such as foxes, coyotes, bears, and even deer have been observed gnawing on antlers for their concentrated nutrients. While I was looking for shed deer antlers in Venango County, this time of year hundreds of folks’ flock to the PA Wilds Region of North-central PA to look for potentially massive shed elk antlers, which can weigh up to 20-lbs. each and make for a lifetime memory, if you are fortunate enough to find a matched set afield. While I’ve never personally found an elk shed, I have a friend Ted whose family owns extensive property by Weedville, and every year he sends me impressive photos of the elk sheds, singles and sets, they find.

While shed hunting was the primary objective of my hike, I found several previously undetected game trails, where a faint buck trail concealed in thicker cover paralleled a much more worn deer trail frequented by does and their yearlings more out in the open. Scat (animal poop) is a definite indicator of a particular species presence at some point, and I saw deposits made by deer, coyote, fox, wild turkey, and porcupine; but was unable to detect any evidence of bear, bobcat, or fisher on my route. While some folks may think it is scat, I did find two locations scattered with owl pellets, the regurgitated remains of mice and other small mammals an owl had eaten, and my informal dissections with a stick revealed bones and hair of their prey species. A barren landscape makes buck rubs and scrapes stand out to the eye, and some appeared to have been made or freshened up rather recently. Head to the woods now to learn things, find things, and gain more appreciation for wildlife’s resiliency!

God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

God Hears Us

Hear my prayer, Lord, listen to my cry for help; do not be deaf to my weeping. Psalm 39:12. READ Psalm 39:4-13

The first grader called the number for emergency dispatch. The 9-1-1 operator answered. "I need help," said the boy. "I have to do take-aways." The operator proceeded to assist, until he heard a woman enter the room and say, "Johnny, what are you doing?" Johnny explained that he couldn't do his math homework, so he did exactly what his mother had taught him to do when he needed help. He called 9-1-1. To Johnny, his current need qualified as an emergency. To the compassionate listener, helping the young boy with his homework was top priority in that moment.

When the psalmist David needed help, he said, "Lord, remind me how brief my time on earth will be. Remind me that my days are numbered—how fleeting my life is" (Psalm 39:4 nlt). He said, "My hope is in" God (v. 7). So, he pleaded for Him to hear and answer his "cry for help" (v. 12). Then, strangely, he asked God to "look away from" him (v. 13). Though David's needs remain unspoken, throughout Scripture he declared that God would always be with him, hearing and answering his prayers.

Our confidence in God's constancy allows us to process our fickle feelings, while affirming there's no request too big or too small for the unchanging One. He hears us, cares for us, and answers every prayer we utter. By Xochitl Dixon

RELECT and PRAY
How has God demonstrated His love for you by answering prayers you thought would be too small to bring to Him? Which of your needs seems too big or too small?

Loving God, thank You for hearing and answering every prayer I place in Your hands.

CryptoQuote

AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter stands for another. In this sample, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each week the code letters are different.
