Our Daily Bread

Retrieval Practice
 READ Exodus 20:8-11
 Remember the Sabbath day. Exodus 20:8

Have you ever been in the middle of telling a story and then stopped, stuck on a detail like a name or date you couldn't recall? We often chalk it up to age, believing that memory fades with time. But recent studies no longer support that view. In fact, they indicate our memory isn't the problem; it's our ability to retrieve those memories. Without a regular rehearsal of some kind, memories become harder to access.

One of the ways to improve that retrieval ability is by regularly scheduled actions or experiences of recalling a certain memory. Our Creator God knew this, so He instructed the children of Israel to set aside one day a week for worship and rest. In addition to the physical rest that comes from such a respite, we gain an opportunity for mental training, to recall that "in six days the Lord made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them" (Exodus 20:11). It helps us to remember there is a God, and it's not us.

In the rush of our lives, we sometimes lose our grip on the memories of what God has done for us and for others. We forget who keeps close watch over our lives and who promises His presence when we feel overwhelmed and alone. A break from our routine provides an opportunity for that needed "retrieval practice"—an intentional decision to stop and remember our God and "forget not all his benefits" (Psalm 103:2).

By John Blase
 REFLECT →→→ What tempts you to skip rest? How can taking time to rest draw you closer to God?

Strange But True

by Lucie Winborne

• Regball, or rugball, is a tough Russian sport combining basketball, wrestling and rugby. As in basketball, players try to shoot a ball through a hoop, but there are no free throws and no need for dribbling. In addition, wrestling and takedowns are part of the action; in fact, there's relatively little that's not allowed.

• The corpse lily blooms so infrequently that when that event finally occurs, it often makes local and even global headlines.

The Definition of MOTHER

Mother is a word we use to identify the one who spent her life making your life happy. Mother is not necessarily the biological mother. Mother is having that loving instinct that is unconditional. Mother is more than words can describe and her face is one you'll always cherish. Mother is an unselfish lady and her family's happiness is far more important than her own. Mother is whom we inherit our qualities of life, our character and disposition... and if lucky enough, her looks. Mother is one who will be there forever... even if it may be her looking down from heaven. Mother is the beginning... and just loving them seems like it is not enough... Thank you MOTHERS a thousand times... for you.

Happy Mother's Day To All!

Let's Talk Turkey and Revisit a Few Spring Turkey Hunting Tips

I'm going to be honest. When I'm traveling in a vehicle, whether I'm the driver or a passenger, my eyes are constantly scanning for wildlife. That includes both near and far, on the ground, in the trees, and flying in the air. It's how I'm wired and I hope I never lose my sense of wonder, when it comes to seeing what might be out there. The last Tuesday of April, which happened to be 4/28, I was traveling and through the tree line bordering the road, roughly 400-yards out across an unplowed cornfield, my eye caught something very black. Now, it was in the vicinity of where others have told me they've seen a bear, here in Lawrence County, and that's immediately where my mind went. I immediately checked my rearview mirror to make sure no one was behind me and I slowed down to roughly 10 mph because I knew an opening was just ahead and I could get a better look at the unidentified black object. Turned out to be a gobbler and not just any male wild turkey. It was the largest, blackest gobbler I've seen in years, accompanied by three much smaller hens. So, while it wasn't a small black bear like I had hoped, it was a "beast of a bird" that really got my adrenaline pumping for the May 2 opening of Spring turkey season.

Now, for those who live their lives by the seasons, I'm not talking Spring, Summer, Fall, and Winter; but rather by the hunting and fishing seasons, last Saturday was a big day with the simultaneous opening of Spring turkey season and walleye on May 2. Now, that we're a week into Spring turkey season, it's a good time to review a few biological turkey facts and some practical turkey hunting tips. One key fact many hunters overlook is that we hunt Spring birds completely opposite of how things work in nature. In the wild, the male sounds off with his gobbles and other vocalizations, and the hens come to him. When we hunt turkeys, we do the complete opposite. We make yelps, purrs, clucks, and other hen vocalizations on the turkey call of our choice to entice a gobbler to come our way. That means, from the beginning, Mr. Turkey is very suspicious of why this particular lady is playing "hard to get" and not coming his way.

When I was 12-years old, my maternal grandfather bought me my first Lynch box call and taught me how to use it. Some of the advice he gave me then, I'd like to share with you now. Become proficient with your call, but don't become enamored with your calling. What Pop-Pop meant by that is too many turkey hunters talk way too much to the bird they're after. As long as the bird is coming your way, keep sounds and movement to a minimum. Enough talk to keep him curious, but not so much that you scare him away. If you've hunted turkeys long enough, you've encountered "the other guy" who just won't shut up with his call. We're talking a series of calls every two minutes. I've heard hunters go on like that for well over an hour and then wonder why no gobbler came their way. Wild turkeys are like deer and coyote, when they hear a call in the distance, they know exactly where the sound came from within a few yards. Now, Pop-Pop also told me the saying "a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush" is a hunting strategy. By that he meant, you just don't know what Mr. Turkey did the night before. He may have put his lady friend to roost the night before and at first light, in spite of your best calling efforts, he's going to head her way to consummate their relationship. However, he's not monogamous and after their time together, he's heading to where he heard your calling to seek out more female companionship.

Now, if you decided to "run and gun" and give up the spot where he initially heard you, then you'll be long gone when he gets there later in the morning. Well known caller, guide, and outdoor writer Judd Cooney confirmed this by placing trail cameras at spots his clients insisted they move on from. Photos confirmed 85% of those gobblers eventually came to those very spots within 4-hours. If you are going to be a patient hunter, remember the adage, "the brain can only absorb, what the backside can endure." That's sage advice to bring a foam pad, seat, or chair, so you can be comfortable and remain motionless. Remember, just like human voices differ from one individual to another, so do turkey voices. The most raspy, worst sounding turkey caller I've ever encountered in the woods, turned out to be a live hen with the most unusual sounding vocalizations. So, don't let your lack of professional grade turkey calling skills keep you from trying to lure in a bird. Regardless of whether you prefer a box call, pot/slate call, friction call, tube call, wing bone, or mouth (diaphragm) call, learn the basic calls and then figure out where, when, and how often to use them. Hopefully, you've patterned your shotgun and even shot it offhand, just in case a wily bird comes in on your strong side. Good luck!

God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

Founded in 1910, ELLWOOD Group began as a producer of high-quality steel and has grown into a trusted maker of crankshafts used around the world. We build heavy-duty cranks that keep equipment running every day.

We start by melting and refining our own steel, then forge crankshafts to shape using powerful presses. From there, each crank is carefully machined and inspected to meet exact requirements. Our crankshafts are used in tractors, locomotives, pumps, compressors, ships, power generation equipment, and military vehicles like tanks.

For more than 100 years, ELLWOOD has been built on hard work, craftsmanship, and doing the job right—values we continue to pass on to the next generation.
