Just Like Cats & Dogs

IT'S A RIDDLE. MY WIFE IS MAD BECAUSE I DON'T KNOW WHAT I DID TO UPSET HER. I CAN'T JUST GUESS OR SHE'LL HAVE 5 MORE REASONS.

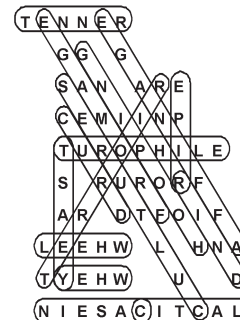

• In the popular 18th-century "Flying Boy" experiment, English scientist Stephen Gray harmlessly electrified a boy suspended by silk cords, astonishing audiences as the boy's hair stood on end and sparks flew from his nose.
• Masculine features are more attractive to a woman during her ovulation cycle, while softer, nurturing-looking features are preferred at other times.

Strange But True

DEAR PAW'S CORNER:

Walking around the farmer's market this weekend, I confronted several people who brought their dogs into the market despite clear signage saying pets aren't allowed. The reason for the sign is that the pavement is HOT! Summer temperatures regularly reach 90 to 100 degrees or more. All the dogs were limping and whining because the pads on their paws were burning! Please tell your readers to leave their pets at home and respect signs that say no pets. - Jeremy C. in Denver

DEAR JEREMY: Absolutely! Folks, please know that pavement on a hot summer day is 40 to 50 degrees higher than the air temperature. On a hundred-degree day, pavement can reach 150 degrees Fahrenheit. In seconds, that kind of heat can cause second- and third-degree burns on a dog's paws.

Add to that the issue of ignoring "no pets" signs. The venue put up that sign for good reasons. Failure to respect that sign puts the pet owner at risk of footing the bill for any damage or injuries their dog might cause. Good pet owners respect the rules.

In the meantime, test the pavement before taking your dog out on it. Put your hand on the sidewalk or even your bare foot. If it's uncomfortably hot for you, it'll be just as bad for your dog.

Walk pets in the early morning or late in the evening. Inspect their paws after every walk for tender spots. If your dog's paws sustain a heat injury, stand them in cool water or place a cool, damp pad on each paw - don't use ice. Take them to the emergency vet if you see blisters or your dog is visibly limping. ©2026 King Features Synd., Inc.

Bolting

Bolting, or "going to seed," is the stage of crop plant growth that produces flowers and seeds. If the crop plant is harvested after bolting, it's likely to taste bitter. Crops well-known for bolting as summer heat sets in are lettuce, spinach, arugula, broccoli, cabbages, kale, collards, carrots, radishes, beets, turnips and herbs such as cilantro, dill and parsley. A bolted plant may not taste very good, but its flowers can attract many pollinators to your garden. - Brenda Weaver

Natural Help for Optimum Health
Good Health should be our most important asset.
Why not take charge of your health today.

Most people on my whole health program see all their numbers go down: sugar, cholesterol, blood pressure, and weight. The only thing that increases is your energy, quality of sleep, and general overall health improves.

A Christlike Response

When they hurled their insults at [Jesus], he did not retaliate; when he suffered, he made no threats. Instead, he entrusted himself to him who judges justly. 1 Peter 2:23 READ 1 Peter 2:21-25

George was working on a construction job in the heat of the Carolina summer sun when someone living nearby walked into the yard where he was working. Clearly angry, the neighbor began to curse and criticize everything about the project and how it was being done. George received the verbal blows without response until the angry neighbor stopped yelling. Then he gently responded, "You've had a really hard day, haven't you?" Suddenly, the angry neighbor's face softened, his head dipped, and he said, "I'm sorry for the way I spoke to you." George's kindness had defused the neighbor's wrath.

There are times when we want to strike back. To give abuse for abuse and insult for insult. What George modeled instead was a kindness seen most perfectly in the way Jesus bore the consequences of our sins: "When they hurled their insults at him, he did not retaliate; when he suffered, he made no threats. Instead, he entrusted himself to him who judges justly" (1 Peter 2:23).

All of us will face moments when we're misunderstood, misrepresented, or attacked. We may want to respond in kind, but the heart of Jesus calls us to be kind, to pursue peace and display understanding. As He enables us today, perhaps God could use us to bless someone enduring a hard day. By Bill Crowder

REFLECT and PRAY

What makes it so easy to strike back at others for their unkind words? How can you be more intentional about showing kindness to those who are unkind to you?

Caring Father, please help me to find in You the strength, grace, and wisdom to display the heart of Jesus.

Did You Know Dragonflies Are on Your Side in the Ongoing Battle Against Mosquitos?

I'm sure at some point you've probably heard or read the story about an old-time outdoorsman passing away and when he arrives at Heaven's gates, the first question he wants to ask God is, "Why did you ever create mosquitos?" Let's face it, the fact that female mosquitos seek out humans (and other species) in order to obtain a meal of blood, so they can lay their eggs and perpetuate their species is not very appealing. Coupled with the fact your body's reaction to the anticoagulant in their saliva gives you the well-known swollen and itchy "bug bite" afterwards, puts mosquitos on the "Top Ten List" of what people dislike about going outdoors in warmer weather. Then there are the mosquito-borne illnesses, some life-threatening, that seriously affect humans around the world, such as Dengue, Malaria, and West Nile Virus. I personally didn't know how bad mosquitos could get until I went on a canoe trip in the Adirondacks in high school and we had to wear mesh mosquito head nets whenever we were on shore.

Humans are constantly at war with mosquitos on many fronts. This includes the use of bug zappers, chemical insecticides, biological "mosquito dunks" that release bacteria which kill aquatic mosquito larva, draining wetlands and water sources where mosquitos breed, and a multitude of bug sprays with their various natural and/or manmade active ingredients. We also have several well-known mammalian and avian allies in the perpetual fight against mosquitos such as bats and birds (which includes aerial foragers like purple martins, barn swallows, chimney swifts, common nighthawks, and Eastern phoebes; and active gleaners like house wrens who search low bushes and shrubs for resting mosquitos). That is why you see purple martin colony nesting boxes and bat boxes erected to attract natural mosquito eaters.

What you may not know is that we also have an entire Order of predatory insects, the Odonata, which includes approximately 3,000 species of dragonflies and almost 3,000 species of damselflies around the world, which love to consume mosquitos. Both mosquito larvae when they are aquatic nymphs and adult mosquitos when they themselves are adults. This week we're going to focus on dragonflies, but here are a few facts about damselflies, so you can know the difference. Damselflies have long, slender, • NBC's "Saturday Night Live" has won more Emmys than any other TV show.

• The first acoustic guitars made hundreds of years ago had four, as opposed to six, strings.

• One acre of peanuts can make 30,000 peanut butter sandwiches.

• The low air pressure of a twister can literally pull a person's eardrum outward.

• The University of Bologna, Italy, which was founded in 1088, is the oldest university in Europe. The term "university" was coined at its creation and it is still considered a leader in European university systems. Its notable alumni include Pope Innocent IX and Copernicus.

• Some critics theorize that zombies gnaw on humans because their warm flesh may have to do with a virus needing fresh DNA or some parasitic microorganism that receives a form of nourishment from live blood cells.

delicate bodies that are frequently very colorful, widely separated eyes, and the most obvious difference is they hold their two pairs of wings together above their body when they are at rest. While there are tremendous variations amongst the thousands of different dragonflies around the world, to differentiate them from damselflies, they often have thicker bodies, their massive multi-faceted eyes may touch, and their two pairs of wings are distinctly separated at rest. Dragonflies are clearly apex predators of the insect world.

Around the world, dragonflies can range in size from 0.6-inches, all the way up to 5-inches in length. However, the fossil record has revealed massive prehistoric dragonflies existed that had a wing-span over 2-feet! Female dragonflies deposit their eggs in water and their maturation underwater can take anywhere from several weeks up to 5-years. As the dragonfly nymphs grow underwater, they progressively molt their exoskeletons and the longest maturing can molt up to 17-times over several years. While growing as nymphs underwater, they are already aggressive predators primarily feeding upon other insect larvae, but their diet may include miniscule tadpoles and minnows. At the end of the larval stage, a dragonfly nymph crawls out of the water, cracks open its exoskeleton, unpacks its abdomen and four wings, before drying and hardening over the next several hours. Depending upon the species, an adult dragonfly can have a lifespan from one week up to two months. Quite adept fliers, dragonflies can fly up and down, forward and backward, and even hover like a helicopter. They must fly to capture insect prey and they are resilient in that they can be missing a wing and still fly. Dragonflies aggressively catch prey with either their feet or their mandibles (biting mouthparts). A single dragonfly can consume 30 to 100 mosquitos per day and enclosure tests have shown they catch 95% of the prey released within a confined space. They have two large, compound eyes (with up to 28,000 lenses in some species) and three simple eyes, called ocelli, with one light-detecting lens each, giving them a nearly 360-degree view. Entomologists are now conducting studies with tiny transmitters to track dragonflies' daily movements and broader migration patterns.

We established a perennial garden 7-years ago with the intent of attracting butterflies. Located between our home and the nearest wetland, it has become a dragonfly haven. They perch there and aggressively hunt mosquitos. You might want to attract dragonflies too!

God Bless, Be Safe, and Great Outdoors!

Donna Erickson's BEST BITES

Prepare Mini Eggplant Pizzas the Italian Way

When my three were preschoolers, I regularly met up with neighborhood moms at the bus stop in the morning or for ballgames at the park and story time at the library. As the kids grew, so did the friendships.

Six of us still get together to celebrate our birthdays. Recently we donned aprons in one of our kitchens and huddled around the center island for a cooking lesson that was taught by my neighbor Cristina, an energetic mom from Italy.

"To an American eye, Italy might seem the same with pasta and pizza wherever you go," she began. "But for food lovers, it's a country waiting to be discovered! Each region has its unique flavors. For example, the taste of a simple ricotta cheese can vary from place to place," she said.

She emphasized that using fresh, seasonal ingredients is the key to tasty meals. This is when she showed us how to transform eggplant into a light side dish called Pizzette di melanzane, which is common in the Campania region that she's from. Like a pizza minus the crust, these mini eggplant pizzas are tasty and versatile! Find Campania on a map, and have fun preparing this easy and authentic Italian recipe with your kids!

MINI EGGPLANT PIZZAS

Makes 8-10 mini pizzas

- 1 large eggplant, about 1 pound
- 3/4 cup tomato puree
- 4 cloves fresh garlic, chopped
- Salt to taste
- Dried oregano to taste
- 1 cup coarsely shredded mozzarella cheese, or a 4-ounce bag
- Parmigiano Reggiano (optional)

Here's the fun: Preheat the oven to 400 F. An adult should cut the eggplant into 1/2-inch-thick rounds. Arrange them on a lightly oiled baking sheet.

As if constructing mini pizzas, let kids spoon the tomato puree over each round. Scatter the garlic and oregano, sprinkle salt to taste, and top with mozzarella. Add Parmigiano Reggiano, if you wish.

Bake rounds in the oven for 25 minutes, or until mozzarella has melted completely and bubbles. Serve immediately as a light side dish with a summer pasta salad and other fresh vegetables.

As an alternative, Cristina suggests serving the mini pizzas cold in a sandwich.

Cook's Note: If your child's like her young daughter, omit the garlic until they develop a taste for it.

• "Dusting shelves with lots of knickknacks can be a real chore. Try slipping a knee-high stocking over the hose of your vacuum wand. You can get very close to the items on the shelf without sucking anything up but dust. If something did get sucked up, the stocking will catch it for you. This also works for toolboxes." – W.U. in South Carolina

Each numbered row contains two clues and two 6-letter answers. The two answers differ from each other by only one letter, which has already been inserted. For example, if you change the A from MASTER for an I, you get MISTER. Do not change the order of the letters. Answers on page 16. ©2026 King Features Synd., Inc.
